General

According to the National Agricultural Statistics Service in Georgia, there were 6.4 days suitable for fieldwork for the week ending Sunday, June 6, 2021. Precipitation ranged from trace amounts of rain to 2.5 inches. Average high temperatures ranged from the low 70s to the low 90s. Average low temperatures ranged from the mid 50s to the low 70s.

Crops

Dry weather continued for much of the state until the weekend rains brought rain to much of the state. Despite much of the state receiving rainfall, many producers reported the need for more in order to provide proper moisture to dried up fields. Corn was irrigated as needed and pollination looks to pick up in the coming week. Cotton and peanut planting nearly complete. Some farmers noted problems with crops emerging given the dry conditions. Farmers continued to cut and bale hay given the dry conditions. Wheat harvest continued closer to completion and soybeans will soon be planted behind much of the acreage. Cotton fields had thrips pressure with pesticides being sprayed soon. Stink bug pressure was noted in emerged corn.

Livestock and Pastures

Livestock conditions were generally in good condition throughout the state. Dry conditions continued to negatively affect pasture conditions in the state. Hay was fed given the dried-out pasture conditions. Flies were noted on cattle.
