CHICKEN AND EGGS, POULTRY PRODUCTION, AND HONEY FINAL ESTIMATES

USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service has published final estimates for Chickens and Eggs, Poultry Production and Value, and Honey, including revisions made by the Agricultural Statistics Board (ASB), for the production years 2013 through 2017. Chicken and egg and honey data were published during calendar years 2013-2017 in periodic ASB reports. The production and value from poultry for 2013-2017 were published during calendar years 2014-2018. Data included in these final publications provide a historic record and a benchmark for current estimates.

Revisions were made after a thorough review of the original survey data and all additional data now available, including the 2017 Census of Agriculture. Other data series considered included slaughter data, imports, exports and any other available administrative information. The 2013-2017 chicken and egg, poultry production, and honey estimates are considered final and will not be revised again.
